1.6 Missing Child Policy

Safeguarding and Welfare requirement: Child Protection

Bowes Pre-school must have and implement a policy, and procedures, to safeguard children.

Children's safety is our highest priority, both on and off the premises. Every attempt is made, through carrying out the outings procedure and the entrance/exit procedure, to ensure the security of children is maintained at all times. In the unlikely event of a child going missing, our missing child procedure will be followed.

Child going missing on the premises

- As soon as it is noticed that a child is missing, the key person/staff alerts the setting Manager.
- The settings Manager will call the police and report the child as missing and will then call the parents/carers.
- The setting Manager will carry out a thorough search of the buildings and outdoor areas.
- The register will be checked to make sure no other child has also gone astray
- Doors and gates are checked to see if there has been a breach of security whereby a child could wander out.
- The setting Manager will talk to all staff members to find out when and where the child was last seen and will record this.
- The setting Manager will contact the Chairperson and report the incident. The Chairperson will come to the setting immediately to carry out an investigation, with the management team where appropriate.

Child going missing on an outing

The following is what to do when staff have taken a small group on an outing, leaving the setting Manager and/or other staff back in the setting. If the setting Manager has accompanied children on the outing, the procedures are adjusted accordingly.

What we do when a child goes missing from a whole setting outing may be a little different, as parents usually attend and are responsible for their own child.

- As soon as it is noticed that a child is missing, staff on the outing ask children to stand with their designated carer and carry out a headcount to ensure that no other child has gone astray. One staff member searches the immediate vicinity, but does not search beyond that.
- The setting Manager is contacted immediately (if not on the outing) and the incident is recorded.
- The setting Manager will contact the police and report the child as missing.
- The setting Manager will contact the parent, who will make their way to the setting.
- Staff will take the remaining children back to the setting.
- In an indoor venue, the staff will contact the venue's security who will handle the search and contact the police if the child is not found.
- The setting Manager will contact the Chairperson and report the incident. The Chairperson will come to the setting immediately to carry out an investigation, with the management committee (where appropriate).
- The setting Manager or member of staff may be advised by the police to stay at the venue until they arrive.

The Investigation

- Staff need to keep calm and do not let the other children become anxious or worried
- The setting leader together with a representative of the management team, will speak with the parent(s).
- The Chairperson will carry out a full investigation taking written statements from all the staff in the room or who were on the outing.
- The key person/staff member writes an incident report detailing:
 - The date and time of the report
 - What staff/children were in the group/outing and the name of the staff designated responsible for the missing child
 - When the child was last seen in the group/outing
 - What has taken place in the group or outing since the child went missing
 - The time it is estimated that the child went missing
- A conclusion is drawn as to how the breach of security happened
- If the incident warrants a police investigation, all staff co-operate fully. In this case, the police will handle all aspects of the investigation, including interviewing staff. Children's social care may be involved if it seems likely that there is a child protection issue to address.
- The incident is reported under RIDDOR arrangements (see the Reporting of Accidents and Incidents Policy); the local authority Health and Safety Officer may want to investigate and will decide if there is a case for prosecution.
- In the event of disciplinary action needing to be taken, Ofsted is informed.
- The insurance provider is informed.

Managing people

- Missing child incidents are very worrying for all concerned. Part of managing the incident is to try and keep everyone as calm as possible.
- The staff will feel worried about the child, especially the key person or designated carer responsible for the safety of that child during the outing. They may blame themselves and their feelings of anxiety and distress will rise as the length of time the child is missing increases.
- Staff may be the understandable target of parental anger and they may be afraid. Setting leaders need to ensure that staff under investigation are not only fairly treated, but receive support while feeling vulnerable.
- The parents will feel angry, and fraught. They may want to blame staff and may single out one staff member over others; they may direct their anger at the setting leader. When dealing with a distraught and angry parent, there should always be two members of staff, one of whom is the setting leader and the other should be the chairperson of the Committee. No matter how understandable the parent's anger may be, aggression or threats against staff are not tolerated, and the police should be called.
- The other children are also sensitive to what is going on around them. They too may be worried. The remaining staff caring for them need to be focused on their needs and must not discuss the incident in front of them. They should answer children's questions honestly but also reassure them.
- In accordance with the severity of the final outcome, staff may need counselling and support. If a child is not found, or is injured, or worse, this will be a very difficult time. The chairperson will use their discretion to decide what action to take.
- Staff must not discuss any missing child incident with the press without taking advice.

This policy is fully supported by the Manager, Staff, Committee and parents/carers of Bowes Pre-School.
